LATINE REDDENDA:

EXERCISES FROM

THE BEGINNER'S LATIN BOOK.

THE authors of the "Beginner's Latin Book" are of the opinion that a separate edition of the exercises for turning English into Latin will be a great convenience to teachers.

After the exercises have been done once with the help of the special vocabularies and under the direction and criticism of the teacher, it will be found useful to review them again and again, sometimes orally, sometimes in writing, with all helps in the way of rules, special vocabularies, and model sentences removed. The pupil is thus left to depend entirely upon his previous study and faithful attention to his teacher's instructions.

It is believed also that teachers who use other elementary Latin books will be glad to have, in cheap and convenient form, a set of exercises which they can use as supplementary to their regular work. For such, an edition is published with an English-Latin vocabulary.

Both editions have the Glossarium Grammaticum for the aid of those who wish to conduct recitations in Latin.

PREFACE.

THE aim of this book is to serve as a preparation for reading, writing, and, to a less degree, for speaking It is designed primarily for boys and girls who are to begin the study of Latin at an early age; but as all who would get from Latin the best mental discipline, or lay a broad and firm foundation for Latin scholarship, must traverse pretty much the same road, and as Latin is begun in this country by most learners before any other foreign language is studied, a beginner's Latin book for those who take up the study at the age of ten or twelve need not be essentially different from one designed for learners of fourteen or fifteen. The most important difference would lie in the knowledge of the terminology and principles of English grammar that might be deemed an indispensable prerequisite. As a matter of fact, children come to the study of Latin with all degrees of ignorance of English grammar, and the minimum of necessary knowledge for the beginner is unquestionably very small. What minimum is considered essential for those who use this book, is indicated on page 6. It is hoped, therefore, that the contents of the book will justify its title; that it does not assume too much, and is not too difficult for the least mature who are likely to use it, and that it will not be found too much simplified, too juvenile, for those who begin Latin in high schools and Simplicity, clearness, and directness have been academies. studied throughout. The system of inflected forms, which is seldom mastered, but the mastery of which is an indispensable condition of further pleasant, successful, and profitable study, is slowly but very fully developed, with the addition of abundant and varied exercises. For convenience, as well as on educational grounds, the paradigm of the verb is given in one block, instead of in fragments detached and dispersed, and everywhere the active and passive forms are placed side by side, to be compared, and learned as they are treated, simultaneously.

The idea underlying and controlling the plan is the maximum of practice with the minimum of theory, on the principle that the thorough acquisition of the elements of Latin must be more of art than science,—more the work of observation, comparison, and imitation, than the mechanical following of rules, or the exercise of analysis and conscious inductive reasoning.

The book contains: -

- 1. A brief introduction explaining the Roman and English methods of pronunciation, the necessary paradigms, an outline of the most important principles of syntax, and a large number of exercises for translation into English and into Latin, accompanied by short explanatory notes.
- 2. About twenty-five simple Latin dialogues, added to as many chapters. Some of these are on subjects of the lessons, and include a good many grammatical terms; some are on various topics of school and holiday life; and others on subjects historical and mythological.
- 3. Easy selections for translation, consisting besides a number of fables, of extracts from Viri Romae, Nepos, Ovid, Catullus, Cæsar, and Cicero, some interspersed with the lessons, others added at the end of the book.

Those who seek in a first Latin book a complete presentation of the facts and principles of the Latin language, will not be satisfied with this volume. But, in the opinion of the authors, there is no error in elementary instruction in Latin more common and more deplorable than that of failing to discriminate between the relatively important and unimportant; between what is suited to the beginning and what to the more advanced stages of the study. It is not too much to say that a very great part of the barrenness and futility of the teaching and study of Latin in schools is due to this lack of discrimination, and to a false conception of thoroughness. It is not intended to imply that a hard and fast line can be drawn, still less is this book offered as a realization in this respect of the ideal. The ideal is never realized. it has been the constant aim to make just this distinction: to determine everywhere, in the light of much observation and reflection and of long experience, what should be made the subject of immediate study, and what should be postponed; what is entitled to prominence, and what ought to be subordinated. Some excellent teachers think that the subjunctive mood should have no place in a preparatory Latin book; and undoubtedly the syntax of the subjunctive does involve too many and too great difficulties for such a work, if anything more than an outline of some commoner uses is attempted. On the other hand, the learner can hardly read any Latin without encountering forms of the subjunctive. The best way then seems to be to construct a large number of very short sentences for practice on the forms, which shall exhibit, in the briefest compass, some important and most frequently recurring uses of the mood, more especially because the ways of translating the subjunctive cannot be illustrated from the isolated forms in the paradigms, as in the other moods. This idea has been worked out in part in Chapter LIV., the forms having been previously left untranslated.

The colloquia have been added, not as an integral and necessary part of the lessons, but to serve as an incentive to the moderate use of Latin orally in recitation, and to afford convenient exercises for training the ear and for enlarging the vocabulary of the learner. The grammatical terms have been drawn chiefly from the Institutiones of Rudimann. The colloquium on page 5 has been borrowed from Dr. H. Meurer's Lateinisches Lesebuch, and suggestions and parts of the materials for a very few others have been derived from the same source; also two or three of the passages for translation, and here and there some sentences in the exercises. Whoever examines these colloquia with a critical eye, will find some words which are confined to the vocabularies of grammarians and commentators, and a very few others employed in senses for which it would be embarrassing to be required to cite classical authority. For example, the word pensum is used often in the sense of a schoolboy's task, something to be done or learned, a lesson. This word doubtless meant strictly a spinner's task. But in classical Latin it had already approached the meaning task in general, and it is but a very slight extension of its application to employ it as it is in the colloquia. Such a moderate decanting of new wine into old bottles, it is hoped may be excused. Still if any teacher thinks that the Latinity of his pupils will be injured by the use of the colloquia, it is optional with him to omit them altogether, without losing the continuity of the lessons.

The complaint is very common, and its justice must be acknowledged, that first Latin books are often excessively and needlessly arid and wooden. Accordingly an effort has been made, while following a rigorously scientific method in the development of the successive subjects, to impart something of attractiveness, interest, freshness, and variety to the study of the elements of Latin by means of the colloquia, the choice of extracts for translation (introduced as early as possible), and the mode of treatment in every part, extending even to the choice of Latin words, and to the construction of many of the exercises.

Usage is not fixed in respect to the so-called principal parts of verbs, a few of the later school manuals giving the nominative masculine of the perfect participle, instead of the supine, except in the case of neuter or intransitive verbs. It has been thought better in this book to follow the prevailing practice, only to treat the form that has been called the supine in this connection, not as the supine,—which in most cases it is not and cannot be, since, as is well known, only about 230 verbs can be proved to have a supine,—but as the neuter of the perfect participle.¹ Thus the learner is guarded against errors and is spared the perplexity of having to memorize now one, now another form.

It is hoped that this book can be finished and reviewed by the average learner in a year, and that the transition then to Viri Romae, Nepos, or Cæsar will not prove too difficult. More than two-thirds of the words used belong to the vocabulary of Cæsar, and only a trifle less than two-thirds to that of Nepos. In the case of young pupils it may be advisable to omit the translation of the English exercises into Latin, beginning with Chapter LV., till after the selections for translation at the end of the book have been read.

It remains to acknowledge the generous assistance of several scholars. Professor George M. Lane, of Harvard University, Professor George L. Kittredge, of Exeter Academy, N.H., George F. Forbes, A.M., and D. O. S. Lowell, A.M., both of the Roxbury Latin School, and Marshall W. Davis, A.B., of Thayer Academy, Braintree, read and criticised the work in manuscript. Mr. Forbes and Mr. Lowell also read the proof-sheets and made important suggestions and corrections. The authors feel especially indebted to John Tetlow, A.M., Head-Master of the Boston Girls' High and Latin Schools, and author of Inductive Lessons in Latin, for critically reading the proof-sheets, and for materially contributing to the improvement of the book by the correction of errors, and by the suggestions of his conscientious and exact scholarship.

Thanks are due to Mr. J. S. Cushing, under whose personal direction the book has been printed, for the patience, care, and skill which he has constantly exercised to make the work typographically as faultless as possible.

BEGINNER'S LATIN BOOK.

CHAPTER I.

00×0×00----

INTRODUCTORY.

It is suggested to teachers who are not experienced in teaching Latin that this chapter may, perhaps, be most profitably used for reference. Pupils will catch pronunciation quickly from the lips of the teacher; and as they make mistakes, they will be interested in being referred to the rules of pronunciation. It is therefore advised that the teacher begin with the Colloquium, page 5, pronouncing slowly each sentence, the pupils following successively, and then together. In the same way the teacher might then construe literally.

- 1. ALPHABET. The Latin alphabet has no w. Otherwise it is the same as the English.
- 2. Vowels.—Vowels may be long (marked thus -), short (marked thus -), or common 1 (marked thus -). The long vowel occupies double the time of the short in pronouncing.
 - 3. Consonants. Of the consonants

That is, sometimes long and ² Also represents the combina sometimes short. ² Also represents the combina tions hs, qus, gs, vs.

4. Sounds of the Letters, Roman Method.

Vowels.

ā is	sound	ded like	the last a in $pap\ddot{a}'$.
ă	"	"	the first a in $pap\ddot{a}'$.
ĕ	"	"	e in they.
ĕ	"	"	e in met.
ī	"	. "	i in machine.
ĭ	"	"	i in pin.
ō	"	"	o in holy.
ŏ	"	60	o in wholly.1
$\bar{\mathbf{u}}^{2}$	"	"	oo in boot.
ŭ	"	"	oo in foot.

Diphthongs.

ae is	sound	ded like	ai in aisle.
au	"	"	ou in our.
ei	"	"	ei in eight.
oe	"	"	oi in boil.
eu	"	"	eu in feud.
ui	46	44	we.

Consonants.

Consonants generally have the same sounds as in English. But observe the following:—

c is	sound	led like	c in $come$.
g	"	"	g in get.
j	"	"	y in yes .
s	"	"	s in sun.3
t	"	44	t in $time.4$
v	"	"	w in wine.
\mathbf{ch}	"	44	k in kite.

¹ That is, as the word is commonly pronounced; the sound heard in holy, shortened.

gu and su before a vowel, u is a semi-vowel or consonant, and is pronounced like w.

² In qu, and also commonly in

³ Never like z. 4 Never like sh.

5. Syllables.

- 1. A syllable consists of a vowel or diphthong with or without one or more consonants. Hence a word has as many syllables as it has vowels and diphthongs: ae-gri-tū'-dō, sickness.
- 2. When a word is divided into syllables, a single consonant is joined with the vowel following: a-mā'-bi-lis, amiable.
- 3. If there are two or more consonants between two vowels, as many are joined with the following vowel as can be pronounced at the beginning of a word or syllable: im'-pro-bus, bad; ho-spes, guest.
- 4. But in compound words the division must show the component parts: ab'-est (ab, away; est, he is), he is away.
- 5. The last syllable of a word is called the ultima; the one next to the last, the penult; the one before the penult, the antepenult.

6. QUANTITY.

- 1. A vowel is short before a vowel (with few exceptions) or h, also probably before nt and nd: pŏ-ē'-ma, poem; grā'-tǐ-ae, thanks; nĭ'-hil, nothing; a'-mănt, they love; mo-něn'-dus, to be advised.
- 2. Diphthongs, vowels representing diphthongs, vowels resulting from contraction, and vowels followed by nf, ns, j, and commonly gn, are long: in-i'-quus (inaequus), unequal; cō'-gō (cŏăgō), collect; cōn'-fe-rō, bring together; mēn'-sa, table; hū'-jus, of him; mā'-gnus, great. In this book only long vowels are marked, unless for some special reason.

- 3. A syllable is long when it contains a long vowel or a diphthong: vo'-ces, voices; ae'-des, temple.
- 4. A syllable is long if it has a short vowel followed by two or more consonants (except a mute followed by l or r), or by x or z; but the short vowel is still pronounced short: sunt, l they are; tem'-plum, temple; dux, l leader.
- 5. A syllable is common if it has a short vowel followed by a mute with l or r: te'-ne-brae, darkness. The vowel is pronounced short.

The above statements are useful in determining the place of the accent.

7. ACCENT.

- 1. Words of two syllables have the accent on the first: tu'-ba, trumpet.
- 2. Words of more than two syllables have the accent on the penult when the penult is long, otherwise on the antepenult: prae-dī'-cō, foretell; prae'-dī-cō, declare; ille'-cē-brae, snares; pa-ter'-nus,² paternal.
- (1) Several words, called enclitics, of which the commonest are ne, the sign of a question, and que, and, are appended to other words, and such words are then accented on the syllable preceding the ne or que: amat'-ne, does he love? dona'-que, and gifts.
- 8. English Method of Pronunciation.—By this method the above rules relating to syllables (5) and accent (7) are observed, and words are pronounced substantially as in English; but final es is sounded as in English ease, and final ōs (acc. plur.) as in dose.

² Here, though the vowel of long by 6.4.

The following colloquium may be used, if the teacher wishes, for practice, and to illustrate the foregoing statements. See introductory note, page 1.

COLLOQUIUM.

Augustus. Quid tibi vīs?

Iūlus. Tēcum ambulāre velim.

- A. Ego nōlō; domī manēre mālō.
 - I. Cūr māvīs?
- A. Ego et frāter vesperī cum patre ambulāre mālumus.
- I. Cür mēcum per silvās vagārī non vultis?
- Quod vesperī amoenitāte fruī mālumus quam sölis ardöre.
- At jam saepe mēcum ambulāre noluistī.
- A. Non rēctē dīcis; non est causa cūr tēcum ambulāre nolim; at cum hortus avī satis amplus sit et lacum silvamque contineat, ibi mālumus lūdere. Sī vīs, nobīscum venī.

What do you wish (for your-self)?

I should like to take a walk with you.

I don't want to; I prefer to stay at home.

Why do you prefer (that)?

My brother and I had rather take a walk at evening with our father.

Why don't you want to roam with me through the woods?

Because we had rather enjoy the pleasantness of evening than the heat of the sun.

But often before now you have not wanted to walk with me.

What you say is not true; there is no reason why I should not want to walk with you; but since grandfather's garden is quite large, and has a pond and a grove, we had rather play there. If you like, come with us.

10. Cases.

1. The names of the cases in Latin are: nominative, vocative, genitive, dative, accusative, ablative.

- 2. The vocative is the case of address, but it does not differ in form from the nominative, except in the singular of nouns and adjectives in us of the second declension, and hence is not elsewhere given separately in the paradigms.
- 3. Another case, the locative, which denotes the place of an action, is mostly confined to proper names, and has the form of the ablative (sometimes dative) singular or plural, or of the genitive singular.
- 11. GENDER. The gender of Latin nouns is determined partly, as in English, by the meaning, but much oftener by the termination.
- 1. Nouns denoting males are masculine: agricola, farmer; Cicero, Cicero.
- 2. Nouns denoting females are feminine: rēgīna, queen; Tullia, Tullia.
- 3. Names of rivers, winds, and months are masculine: Padus, Po; aquilō, north wind; Jānuārius, January.
- 4. Names of countries, towns, islands, and trees, are feminine: Āfrica, Africa; Rōma, Rome; Sicilia, Sicily; pirus, pear-tree.
 - 5. Indeclinable nouns are neuter: fas, right.

Other rules of gender will be given under the several declensions.

It is assumed that the learner knows the names and functions of the parts of speech in English, and the meanings of the common grammatical terms, such as subject and predicate, case, mood, tense, voice, declension, conjugation, etc. So much knowledge is absolutely essential for entering upon the study of the following lessons.

¹ Filia and dea, goddess, have a dative and ablative plural in -ābus, but this is mostly confined to legal and religious language.

² Caution: Do not pronounce s like z, if you use the Roman method. See page 2, note 3.

³ The masculine and neuter of adjectives will be taken up in connection with nouns of the second declension.

⁴ Observe that the adjective takes the case and number of the noun to which it belongs.

- 1. The adjective is commonly placed after its noun. When placed before the noun it is for emphasis.
- 2. The verb commonly comes at the end of the sentence, but est and sunt are less frequently so placed.
 - 3. The object commonly comes before the verb.
- 24. Observe that the subject is in the nominative case, and that the verb agrees with it in number, as in English.
- 25. Observe that the verb habet (habent) is transitive, and has its object in the accusative.
- 26. Rule of Syntax.—The direct object of a transitive verb is in the accusative case.

¹ Galba's daughter. The genitive is often to be translated by the English possessive.

² Translate, his daughter.

³ It is.

- 33. Examine the seventh sentence in I. The transitive verb dat has a direct object, columbam; but it also has a dative limiting it, filiae. This dative is called an Indirect Object. Find other illustrations of the following:

Now observe the following examples: agricola bonus, a good farmer; agricolae bonī, of a good farmer; agricolae bonō, to or for a good farmer, etc. Here the adjective has a different termination from the noun. Since agricola is masculine, the adjective that goes with it must have the masculine form, as well as the same number and case.

61. The farmer is praised by the queen would be expressed in Latin thus: Agricola ā (or ab) rēgīnā laudātur; and The queen is praised by the farmer, thus: Rēgīna ab (not ā) agricolā laudātur.

Observe that in the first sentence, regina, and in the second, agricola, denotes the person by whom the thing is done (the agent); also, that these words are in the ablative, and are preceded by a or ab. The ablative thus used, together with the preposition, answers the question by whom? and is called the Ablative of Agent.

alone, answers the question from what? of what? Observe further, that the verbs of the first group are compounds of ā, dē, ex, and the "separation" is literal, or physical; in the second group the "separation" is figurative, or less literal.

130. Rule of Syntax. — Separation is expressed by the ablative with \bar{a} (ab), $d\bar{e}$, \bar{e} (ex), in connection with verbs compounded with these prepositions, or by the ablative alone with simple verbs meaning to set free, deprive, or want.

145. Rule of Syntax. — Manner is sometimes expressed by the ablative with cum; but if the ablative has an adjective, cum is often omitted.

151. An inspection of the tables shows: -

- 1. That the i of the stem is sometimes lost, and sometimes changed to e. It appears in the terminations im, is (acc. plur.), i (abl. sing.), ia, and ium.
- 2. That the ablative singular has in some nouns $\bar{\imath}$, in some e, and in some $\bar{\imath}$ or e; in adjectives, always $\bar{\imath}$.
- 3. That the genitive plural has ium, and the nominative and accusative plural neuter ia. Compare these endings with the nominative and genitive plural of consonant stems (105, 134, 140).
- 4. Memor has um in the genitive plural, masculine and feminine. It has no neuter plural. Like memor decline vigil, watchful, which has neuter plural vigilia, vigilium, etc.

152. To stems in i belong:—

- 1. Nouns in is and ēs not increasing in the genitive.1
- 2. Neuters in e, al, and ar.
- 3. Adjectives of two terminations.
- 4. Adjectives of the third declension of three terminations.
- 153. Nouns in ēs (gen. is) are declined like nūbēs. Most nouns in is are declined like hostis. Canis, dog, has genitive plural canum.
- 154. The principal nouns declined like turris are: clāvis, key; nāvis, ship; puppis, stern of a ship; secūris, axe.

Like Ignis are: amnis, river; anguis, snake; avis, bird; cīvis, citizen; clāssis, fleet; collis, hill; fīnis, end; orbis, circle; postis, post. Sitis, thirst, has acc. in -im, abl. in -I.

¹ That is, having no more syllables than in the nominative.

- 155. Adjectives declined like acer are called adjectives of three terminations; those declined like levis, adjectives of two terminations; while those declined like vetus (141), audāx and prūdēns (164), are called adjectives of one termination.
- 156. Decline together nāvis longa, ship of war; vallis profunda, deep valley; Alpēs altae, high Alps. See 161.

157. Paradigm illustrating apposition:—

- N.V. Cicerō consul, Cicero, the consul.
- G. Ciceronis consulis, of Cicero, the consul.
- Ciceroni consuli, to or for Cicero, the consul.
- Ac. Ciceronem consulem, Cicero, the consul.
- Ab. ā Cicerone consule, by Cicero, the consul.

COMPARISON OF ADJECTIVES.

205. Adjectives in Latin, as in English, change their terminations to express different degrees of quality: altus, altior, altissimus, high, higher, highest.

Adjectives may also be compared in Latin, as in English, by means of adverbs.

206. Examine the following: -

POSITIVE. altus (alto) levis (levi) prūdēns (prūdent)	COMPARATIVE. altior, altius levior, levius prūdentior, prūdentius	superlative. altissimus, etc. levissimus, etc. prūdentissimus, etc.
pulcher (pulchro)	pulchrior, pulchrius	pulcher rimus, etc.
miser (misero)	miserior, miserius	miser rimus, etc.
ācer (acri)	ācrior, ācrius	ācer rimus, etc.

Observe (1) that the comparative is formed in both the above groups by dropping the final vowel of the stem, if the stem ends in a vowel, and adding ior, ius.

(2) That the superlative is formed in the first group from the shortened stem by adding issimus, issimu, issimum.

- (3) But if the adjective ends in er, the superlative is formed by adding rimus, rima, rimum, to the positive.
- 207. Six adjectives in lis drop the final vowel of the stem and add limus to form the superlative:

facilis, -e, easy. facilior, facilius difficilis, -e, hard. difficilior, difficilius similis, -e, like. similior, similius dissimilis, -e, unlike. dissimilior, dissimilius dissimillimus, -a, -um humilis, -e, low. humilior, humilius gracilis, -e, slender. gracilior, gracilius

CHAPTER XXIX. 1.

FORMATION AND COMPARISON OF ADVERBS.

216. Most adverbs are formed from adjectives, and follow them in comparison.

217. Examine the following: —

ADJECTIVE.	STEM.	ADVERB.
grātus, thankful.	grāto-	grāt ē , thankfully.
benīgnus, kind.	benīgno-	benīgu ē , kindly.
miser, wretched.	misero-	miser e, wretchedly.
pulcher, beautiful.	pulchro-	pulchr ē , beautifully.
fortis, brave.	forti-	fortiter, bravely.
ācer, eager.	ācri-	ācri ter, eagerly.
prūdēns, wise.	prüdent-	prūden ter, wisely.
fēlīx. lucku.	fēlīci-	fēlici ter luckilu.

Observe (1) that the adjectives of the first group are of the o (or second) declension, and that the adverbs are formed from the stem of the adjectives by changing the final o of the stem to \bar{e} .

- (2) That the adjectives of the second group are of the third declension, and that the adverbs are formed from the stem of the adjectives by adding ter.
 - (3) But stems in nt drop t before adding the suffix ter.

218. Examine the following: —

ADJECTIVE.	ADVERB,
multus, much.	multum, much.
facilis, easy.	facile, easily.
impūnis, unpunished.	impūne, with safety.
citus, quick.	citö, quickly.
subitus, sudden.	subitō, suddenly.
prīmus, first .	prīmō, at first.

Observe that in the first group the accusative singular neuter of the adjective is used as an adverb; in the second, the ablative.

219. Examine the following: —

POSITIVE.	COMPARATIVE.	SUPERLATIVE
grātē	grātius '	grātissimē
miserē	miserius	miserrimē
ācriter	ācrius	ācerrimē
fēlīciter	fēlīcius	fēlīcissimē
benĕ 1	melius	optimē
malĕ	pējus	pessimē
malě multum	pējus plūs	pessimē plūrimum
		•

Observe that the comparative of the adverb is the same as the neuter accusative singular of the adjective; and that the superlative is formed from the superlative of the adjective by changing, as in the positive, the final o of the stem to \bar{e} .

If the adjective is irregular in comparison, the adverb is likewise.

Compare: —

placidē, calnily. līberē, freely. pulchrē, beautifully. audācter, boldly. celeriter, quickly. prūdenter, wisely.

1. Observe the feminine nominative singular, and the neuter nominative plural of aliquis, and compare them with corresponding forms of quis.

- 2. Aliquis is used adjectively in the neuter form aliquod, and sometimes in the masculine and feminine forms. The same is true of quīdam and quisque (4).
- 3. Besides the interrogative quis and its compounds, there is an interrogative adjective quī (which, what?) declined like the relative quī.
- 4. Besides aliquis, the most important indefinites are:

quīdam quaedam quiddam, or quoddam, certain one, certain.
quisquam (wanting) quidquam, any one (at all), no plural.
quisque quaeque quidque, or quodque, each one, every.

- 5. Quīdam, quisquam, and quisque are declined like the simple pronouns. Quīdam changes m to n before d; quendam, etc., quōrundam, etc.
- 6. Aliquis, some one, any one (without emphasis); quisquam, any one at all (emphatic), also in negative and interrogative sentences. Quis after sī, nisi, nē, and num, is indefinite, any one.
- 7. Aliquis means some man, I don't know who; quidam, a certain man, whom I know, but don't mean to describe.

280. Examine the following:—

- Puer quī vēnit, the boy who came.
- 2. Puella quae vēnit, the girl who came.
- 3. Librī quōs legis, the books which you read.
- Puellae quās vīdistī, the girls whom you saw.

Compare the relative in each of the above examples with the noun to which it refers (called the antecedent) in respect, first to gender, and then to number.

Look now at the case of the relative in each of the examples, and compare the English with the Latin. Plainly, the case of the relative has nothing to do with that of the antecedent. It may be the same or different.

281. Rule of Syntax. 1 — A relative pronoun agrees with its antecedent in gender and number.

¹ As the person of the antecedent has no effect on the relative, it is wrong, though customary, to say "the relative agrees with its antecedent in gender, number, and person."

282. Examine the following: -

- 1. Ego quī vēnī, I who came.
- 2. Võs quī vēnistis, you who came.

Observe now the person and number of the verb in these two examples, and in the first two given in 280.

283. Rule of Syntax.—The verb of which a relative pronoun is the subject agrees in person and number with the antecedent of the relative.

DEPONENT VERBS.

FIRST AND SECOND CONJUGATIONS.

CHAPTER LI. 1.

PREPOSITIONS.

333. Thus far several prepositions have been used in the exercises, some followed by the accusative and some by the ablative. These are the only cases in Latin that follow prepositions.

PREPOSITIONS FOLLOWED BY THE ABLATIVE.

ä (ab, abs), away from, by. absque, without. coram, in presence of.

cum, with.

de, from, concerning.

ē (ex), out of, from.

prae, before, in comparison with.

prö, before, for.

sine, without.

tenus, as far as, up to.

- 1. In, meaning into, to, towards, for, that is after verbs denoting motion, takes the accusative.
- In, meaning in, on, at, that is after verbs denoting rest, takes the ablative. See 334.
- 3. Sub, under, up to, after verbs of motion, takes the accusative; after verbs of rest, the ablative.
- Remember that all prepositions except the ten mentioned, and in and sub, are followed by the accusative only.

EXPRESSIONS OF PLACE.

334. Examine the following: —

- 1. In oppidō, in the town.
- 2. In nāvī, on shipboard.
- 3. Ad montem, to the mountain.
- 4. Ex agrīs, from the fields.
- 5. In Ītaliā, in Italy.
- 6. In Italiam, to Italy.
- 7. Ex Italia, from Italy.

- 8. Athenis, at (in) Athens.
- 9. Corinthi, at (in) Corinth.

- 11. Carthagini, at (in) Carthage.
- 12. Romae, at (in) Rome.
- 13. Romam, to Rome.
- 14. Romā, from Rome.

Observe the ways of denoting the place in, on, at, to, from which. In English we always use a preposition with the noun of place, as the examples show. So in Latin (see examples 1-7), except with names of towns.² For these a rule may be inferred from the examples 8-14.

- 335. Rule of Syntax. With names of towns 1. The place in or at which is expressed by the
- 1. The place in or at which is expressed by the locative. (See 14, 2; 40; 175.)
- 2. The place to which, by the accusative without a preposition.³
- 3. The place from which, by the ablative without a preposition.⁴

¹ Except in the case of the word home, after a verb of motion.

² Names of small islands are often treated like names of towns.

⁸ This accusative may be called the Accusative of Limit, because it denotes the limit, or end, of motion.

⁴ This ablative is the ablative of separation. (128, 129, 130.)

336. Domus, home, house, and rus, the country, have the construction of names of towns:

domī, at home. domum, (to) home. domō, from home. rūrī, in the country.
rūs, to (into) the country.
rūre, from the country.

CHAPTER LII.

ADDITIONAL PRINCIPLES OF SYNTAX.

340. Examine the following: --

- 1. Alter consulum, one of the consuls.
- 2. Unus militum, one of the soldiers.
- 3. Quis vestrum? who of you?
- 4. Nihil novī, nothing (of) new.
- 5. Satis pecuniae, enough (of) money.
- 6. Unus ex militibus, one of the soldiers.
- 7. Minimus ex illīs, the youngest of them.

The first five of the examples illustrate what is called the Partitive Genitive, the word in the genitive denoting a whole, and the word which it limits a part of that whole; 6 and 7 illustrate another way of expressing the partitive idea.

341. Examine the following:—

- Catilina fuit ingeniō malō, Catiline was (a man) of bad disposition.
- Iccius summā nōbilitāte fuit, Iccius was (a man) of the highest rank.
- 3. Puer sēdecim annōrum, a boy of sixteen years.
- 4. Vestis māgnī pretī, a garment of great vulue.
- 5. Vir summae virtūtis, a man of the highest courage.

The above are examples of the Descriptive Ablative and the Descriptive Genitive. Observe that in each instance the ablative or genitive is limited by an adjective, and that the adjective and noun together denote a quality or characteristic of that which is described.

Present participle of adflö.

² Were an annoyance.

342. Examine the following:—

- 1. Rēgī serviō, I serve the king.
- 2. Cīvitātī prodest, he benefits the state.
- 3. Caesarī placuit, it pleased Casar.
- 4. Frätri persuädet, he persuades his brother.
- 5. Crēde milii, believe me.
- 6. Lēgibus cīvitātis pārēbat, (220. I. 2).
- 7. Interdum amicis nocet, (272. I. 8).

Observe that the verbs, which in English have a direct object, are followed in Latin by the dative (the case of the indirect object). Such verbs should be carefully noted as they occur in the exercises. They may be summed up in the following—

343. Rule of Syntax.—Many verbs signifying to please or displease, benefit or injure, command or obey, serve, resist, believe, threaten, persuade, and the like, take the dative.

344. Examine the following:—

- 1. Māgnō ūsuī nostrīs fuit, it was of great service to our men.
- 2. Est mihi curae, it is (for) a care to me.
- Equitatum auxilio Caesari miserant, they had sent cavalry to aid Cæsar (for aid to Cæsar).
- Quinque cohortes castris praesidio relinquit, he leaves five cohorts to defend the camp (for defence to the camp).

Observe in each of the above sentences two datives, one translated (literally) with for, the other with to. In 1 and 2, usu and curae are like the predicate nominative, which is often used where we might expect this dative; in 3 and 4, auxilio and praesidio denote a purpose. This dative for which is sometimes called the Dative of Service. The two together are sometimes called the Double Dative.

Observe instances of the foregoing constructions as they occur in the exercises and reading lessons.

CHAPTER LIII.

DERIVATION.

- 345. Some derivations have been indicated in the vocabularies by separating the parts of compound words, and, beginning with 221, by putting words in brackets. The bracketed words, however, are not to be understood as the primitives or originals of the words against which they stand, as is customarily the case in lexicons and special vocabularies, but that they are connected with them in formation from a common root or stem. The habit of observing such relationships is the important thing. The following list is selected from previous vocabularies for further study of the subject:—

- ager, field, land, soil; agri-cola (colō, cultivate), one who cultivates

CHAPTER LIV. 1.

THE SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD.

SEQUENCE OF TENSES: PRACTICE ON FORMS.

346. Learn the subjunctive of sum (73) and its compounds (292, 293).

The chief use of the subjunctive is in subjoined, that is, dependent, clauses.

347. Examine the following: -

- Audiō ubi sit, fuerit, futūrus sit, I hear where he is, has been or was, is going to be.
- Audīvī ubi sit, fuerit, futūrus sit, I have heard where he is, has been or was, is going to be.

- Audīveram ubi esset, fuisset, futūrus esset, I had heard where he was, had been, was going to be.

Notice what tenses are used in the principal clauses of each of the preceding groups of examples. Those in the first group—the present, perfect definite, the future, and future perfect—are called primary or principal tenses. Those in the second group—the imperfect, perfect indefinite, and the pluperfect—are called secondary or historical tenses.

Observe also that primary tenses of the subjunctive are used in the first four, secondary in the last three.

348. Rule of Syntax.—Primary tenses of the subjunctive follow primary tenses of the indicative, and secondary follow secondary.

Observe that the subjunctive in the foregoing examples is trans lated like the indicative.

349. Examine the following: —

- 1. Nëmö adest quin sit fortis, no one is present who is not brave.
- 2. Quis adest quin sit fortis? who is present who is not brave?

- Non dubium est quin sit fortis, there is no doubt that he is brave, or of his being brave.
- Non dubito quin sit fortis, I do not doubt that he is brave, or his being brave.

Observe (1) that the subjunctive follows quīn; (2) that quīn is used after negative expressions and questions that expect a negative answer; (3) that the subjunctive clause with quīn (compounded of quī, who, and nē, not) may be variously rendered.

—∾∺∾— CHAPTER LV.

THE SUBJUNCTIVE: RELATIVE OF PURPOSE.

[It is suggested that the turning of English into Latin be now deferred till after the Reading Lessons, pp. 211-222, have been finished.]

364. In all the Latin sentences in the preceding lesson in which ut and nē are used with the subjunctive, except 362. I. 9, the dependent clause expresses a purpose. And, on the other hand, in the English sentences all the dependent clauses expressing purpose ("to render aid," "not to carry," etc.) had to be turned into Latin by ut or në with the subjunctive. But the Latin often expresses a purpose by means of a relative pronoun followed by the subjunctive. See the first six sentences below.

365. EXERCISES.

I. 1. Ancus lēgātum mittit ut rēs repetat.
 2. Ancus lēgātum mittit quī rēs repetat.
 3. Lēgātī vēnērunt ut pācem peterent. 4. Lēgātī vēnērunt quī pācem peterent. 5. Pater fīliō equum dedit ut equitāret. 6. Pater fīliō equum dabat quī eum veheret. 7. Ad sīngulās urbēs scrībēmus nē mūrōs dīruant. 8. Nōn dubium est quīn Catō ad urbēs scrīpserit. 9. Quis dubitāvit quīn Catō imperāvisset ut urbēs mūrōs dīruerent? 10. Rōmulus urbem fēcit quae asylum esset; Rōmulus urbem facit quae sit asylum.

II. 1. A horse was given to the boy by his father, for him to ride. 2. A father sent a messenger to Rome to speak to his son. 3. A father sends a messenger to Rome to speak to his son. 4. Romulus makes proclamation that no one shall leap over his wall. 5. Romulus proclaimed that no one should leap over his wall. 6. We will warn them not to leap over our walls. 7. Romulus sent messengers to invite neighboring people to his games. 8. The father will give his son a horse for him to ride. 9. Who doubts that a kind father gives his son books? 10. Nobody doubted that the father had given his son many things.

CHAPTER LVI.

THE SUBJUNCTIVE: Ut and $N\bar{e}$.

367. The subjunctive with ut to denote purpose has been illustrated (352). But the subjunctive with ut has other uses.

368. Examine the following:—

- 1. Tantus est mīlitum ardor ut ad bellum dūcantur, so great is the ardor of the soldiers that they are led to war.
- 2. Accidit ut non domī essem, it happened that I was not at home.
- 3. Fabricius adeō inops dēcēssit ut nihil relīquerit,1 Fabricius died so poor as to leave nothing.

In these examples the dependent clause denotes a result. Compare the translation of ut and the subjunctive in purpose clauses and in result clauses. That not in result clauses = ut non. Cf. 358.

- 369. Still another use of the subjunctive with ut and ne is illustrated in the following sentences:
 - 1. Timeo ut veniat, I fear that he is not coming, or will not come.
 - 2. Timeō ut vēnerit, I fear that he has not come.
 - 3. Timēbam ut vēnisset, I feared that he had not come.
 - 4. Timeō nē veniat, I fear that he is coming, or will come
 - 5. Timeo në vënerit, I fear that he has come.
 - 6. Timëbam në vënisset, I feared that he had come.

An inspection of the foregoing examples shows that ut and ne seem sometimes to exchange meanings.

After verbs of fearing, ut is translated that not, and ne, that.

Observe that in 1 and 4 the present subjunctive may be trans lated as a future.

370.

EXERCISES. I. 1. Pompējus ita ēgit ut ā Sūllā dīligerētur. - 2. Is, ut Sūllae² subvenīret, mīlitēs collēgit. 3. Posteā in³ Siciliam profectus est, ut eam provinciam a Carbone reciperet.

 Atticus Athēnīs ita vīxit, ut omnibus cīvibus esset cārissimus.
 Nōn dubitō quīn nostrī mīlitēs hostēs superāverint.
 Nōn est dubium quīn semper fidem servāveritis.
 Timeō ut sustineās labōrēs.

I was afraid that you had been sick. 11. The enemy are fighting so spiritedly that no one will survive. 4 12. They have fought so sharply that not one has survived. 13. We will set out for 5 Sicily in order to receive 6 that province.

CHAPTER LVII. 1.

THE SUBJUNCTIVE: Cum.

- 372. The subjunctive occurs very frequently in dependent clauses beginning with cum, meaning (1) when, while, as, of time; (2) since, because, as, of cause or reason; (3) although, of concession:
 - Cum Servius in domō Tarquinī esset, mīrābile accidit, while Servius was in the house of Tarquin, a wonderful thing happened.
 - Cum Tarquinius occīsus esset, ējus uxor populum allocūta est, when Tarquin had been killed, his wife addressed the people.
 - Tullia, cum domum redīret, super corpus patris carpentum ēgit, Tullia, as she was returning homa, drove her wagon over the body of her father.

An inspection of the above examples shows that—

- (1) The tenses of the subjunctive are the imperf. and pluperfect.
- (2) The cum clause marks the time of the act of the principal clause, the verb of which is in the perfect.
 - (3) The sentences may be called narrative sentences.
- 373. Rule of Syntax.—Cum temporal, that is, cum in narrative clauses, is followed by the imperfect and pluperfect subjunctive to mark the time of the action in the principal clause.
 - 374. Examine the following:—
 - Cum huïc lēgī senātus repūgnāret, Caesar rem ad populum dētulit, since the senate opposed this law, Casar referred the matter to the people.
 - Cum de improviso venisset, Remi legatos miserunt, since he had come unexpectedly, the Remi sent ambassadors.
 - Cum vīta metūs plēna sit, amīcitiās parāte, since life is full of fear, form friendships.
 - Cum mē interrogāveris, respondēbo, as you have asked me, I will answer.

 Nihil mē adjūvit cum posset, he gave me no aid (aided me in nothing), although it was in his power.

Notice that -

- (1) All the four tenses of the subjunctive are used.
- (2) The cum clause states the cause or reason of the act of the principal clause; or denotes a concession, indicated in English by though, admitting that, etc.

375. Rule of Syntax. — Cum causal or concessive is followed by the subjunctive in all its tenses.

- 1. Cum followed by the present or perfect subjunctive is almost always causal, and may be translated since or as; followed by the imperfect or pluperfect it is very often temporal.
- 2. Cum temporal and the subjunctive can often be translated in some other way better than by when or as with the indicative. Thus, in 372. 2, we might translate, After the killing of Tarquin, etc.; and in 3, Tullia, returning home, or Tullia, on her way home.

376. EXERCISES.

- I. 1. Cum jūssī essent invicem dīcere, ūnus orsus est.
 2. Pyrrhus, cum tot Rōmānōs mortuōs vidēret, manūs ad caelum sustulit.

Follow this method, when a Latin sentence appears difficult; but keep a sharp eye on the terminations of the words.

¹ The as of reason, or of time?

² Four common verbs, audeō, dare, gaudeō, rejoice, soleō, be accustomed, fīdō, trust, have the passive form in the perfect, and hence are called semi-deponents.

CHAPTER LVIII

THE SUBJUNCTIVE: INDIRECT QUESTIONS.

379. Examine the following: -

DIRECT.

- 1. Quis est? who is he?
- 2. Ubi sumus? where are we?
- 3. Cur rides? why do you laugh?
- 4. Quem vīdistī? whom have you seen?

INDIRECT.

- Sciō quis sit, I know who he is.
- Sciō ubi sīmus, I know where we are.
- Sciō cūr rīdeās, I know why you laugh.
- Sciō quem vīderis, I know whom you have seen.

² Supply dixit or respondit. But it is livelier without a verb.

³ Perhaps the literal translation of this phrase is, be thou blessed in (or for) thy courage; macte for mactus, because tū is here almost more of a vocative than a nominative.

⁴ Supply $n\bar{e}$ after $cav\bar{e}$, beware lest you lose = beware of losing.

⁵ Connects muniant and firment.

⁶ Imperative from patior.

⁷ Account for the case.

[§] From occido. But occisi, in the next clause, from occido.

⁹ For; in expresses purpose.

Compare each of the foregoing examples in the left hand column with the corresponding one on the right. Observe that each dependent clause in the right hand column begins with an interrogative word, and contains the substance of a question, though not a question in form. Such dependent clauses are called Indirect Questions. Observe the mood, and how it is translated.

380. Rule of Syntax. — Indirect questions take the subjunctive.

1. The commonest interrogative words introducing indirect questions are quis, who? cūr, why? num, whether? ubi, where? quō, whither? unde, whence? quot, how many?

- 8. Do you not wonder why we are praised; have been praised? 9. I wonder whether he has been admonished; is being admonished. 10. They wondered whether we were admonished; had been admonished.

CHAPTER LIX. 1.

THE SUBJUNCTIVE: WISHES AND CONDITIONS.

383. Examine the following: -

- 1. Utinam pater veniat! would that father would come! I wish father would come! O that father would come!
- Sī pater veniat, laetus sim, if father should come, I should be glad.
- Utinam pater adesset! would that father were here!
- Sī pater adesset, laetus essem, if father were here, I should be glad.
- 5. Utinam pater adfuisset! would that father had been here!
- Sī pater adfuisset, laetus fuissem, if father had been here, I should have been glad.

¹ Introducing direct questions, it indicates that the answer no is expected, but does not usually admit of translation. ² See p. 177, n. 2.

- (1) In 1 and 2 what time do the words would come, should come, should be, point to? Plainly not to the past, nor to the instant present, but vaguely to the future; and this vague future is expressed in Latin by the present subjunctive. The wish and the condition referring to the future may be fulfilled; the father may come.
- (2) In 3 and 4 the wish and condition refer to the present; and this present is expressed by the imperfect subjunctive. The wish and condition are plainly contrary to what is the fact; the father is, in fact, not present.
- (3) In 5 and 6 the tense of the subjunctive offers no difficulty. The wish and condition are plainly contrary to what was the fact; the father was, in fact, not present.
- 384. Rule of Syntax.—In wishes and conditions the present subjunctive is used of what may come true, the imperfect subjunctive of what is not true, the pluperfect subjunctive of what was not true. The same mood is regularly employed in the conclusion of such conditional sentences.

The indicative is not used in wishes. The use of the indicative in conditional sentences is easily understood.

385. Examine the following: —

- 1. Sī pater adest, bene est, if father is present, it is well.
- 2. Sī pater aderat, bene erat, if father was present, it was well.
- 3. Sī pater aderit, bene erit, if father shall be present, it will be well.

Observe that in examples 1 and 2 a condition is stated without implying anything. In example 3, as the time is future, that which is supposed may be fulfilled. This form, then, of stating a supposition is almost exactly equivalent to that of the present subjunctive in 383; it is only a livelier way of putting it.

¹ In English we commonly use a present form in such conditions that refer to the future. Thus we say, If he is (to-morrow, next week, etc.) present, it will be well. Do not be deceived, when translating into Latin, by this apparent present. See if the conclusion contains a future.

386.

EXERCISES.1

- I. 1. Sī vīctōriam certam videam, nunquam pūgnem.

 2. Sī mē virum bonum jūdicārēs,² nōn mē corrumpere vellēs.²

 3. Dictātor,³ sī adfuisset, rem nōn melius gessisset.

 4. Varrō, sī Carthāginiēnsium dux fuisset, temeritātis poenās dedisset.⁴ 5. Sī patrem tuum crās videam, quid dīcat? 6. Nōn profectus essem, nisi Caesar jūssisset.

 7. Sī rēctē faciās, laudēris. 8. Sī maneat Mārcus, gaudeāmus; sīn autem eat, tamen eum laudēmus. 9. Sī leō accēderet,⁵ omnēs fugerent. 10. Utinam frāter meus vīveret clāssemque iterum dūceret! 11. Utinam māter nōbīs fābulam nārret! 12. Utinam tēcum 6 in agrīs ambulāvissem!
- II. 7 1. Would that I were walking in the fields with you to-day! 2. I wish you had been walking 8 with me 6 yesterday. 3. O take 9 a walk with us in the fields to-morrow! 4. If you should see victory certain, my friend, should you not fight? 5. I should not now be setting out if Cæsar did not order it. 6. If you were acting rightly, you would be praised. 7. If you had acted rightly, you would have been praised. 8. I wish 9 you would act rightly, so as to 10 be praised. 9. If we should see a lion, we should flee.

¹ In translating these sentences, render the present subjunctive in such a way as to indicate vaguely future time; thus, videam ... pūgnem, should see ... should fight.

² Compare 383. 4, and read again 383 (2).

⁸ Notice the position of this word, which is the subject of gessisset. It may be translated as it stands, first.

⁴ Given punishments of = paid the penalty for.

⁵ If a lion were coming, not were to come, which would be expressed by the present subjunctive.

CHAPTER LX.

THE SUBJUNCTIVE AND IMPERATIVE.

- 389. Learn the future imperative, active and passive, of the regular and irregular verbs, and review the present imperative.
- 390. In the last lesson occurred the first illustrations of the subjunctive not in dependent clauses, that is, in wishes and in the principal clauses of conditional sentences. The subjunctive is similarly used in commands and appeals, and when so used is called the Hortatory Subjunctive.
 - 391. Examine the following paradigms:—

COMMANDS AND APPEALS.

POSITIVE.
moneam, let me advise.
mone, or moneas, advise.
moneat, | let him advise, or moneamus, let us advise.
moneamus, let us advise.
moneamt, | let them advise,
moneant, | or they shall advise.

NEGATIVE.

në moneam, let me not advise.
në monueris, do not advise.
në moneat, \int let him not, or he në monuerit, \int shall not, advise.
në monueritis, do not advise.
\text{në monueritis}, do not advise.

nē moneant, nē monuerint, they shall not, advise.

- (1) Observe that positive commands and appeals are expressed by the subjunctive only, except in the second person; and negative commands and appeals, by the subjunctive with nē. 1
- (2) Observe also that the present and perfect subjunctive, in the third person, are used without essential difference of meaning; and that in negative commands and appeals in the second person the perfect 2 only 3 is given.
- (3) The future imperative is mostly confined to laws and maxims: Hominem mortuum in urbe ne sepelītō, thou shalt not bury a dead man within the city. Percontātōrem fugitō, nam garrulus īdem est, avoid a questioner, for he is a babbler too.
- (4) The preceding paradigms, with the meanings, should be thoroughly committed to memory.

396. Examine the following: -

- 2. Possum vidēre, I am able to see.
- 3. Volo legere, I wish to read.
- 4. Eam sequī sē jubet, he orders her to follow him(self).
- Sāturnus in Italiam vēnisse dīcitur, Saturn is said to have come into Italy.

Observe that in each sentence the infinitive is used in Latin precisely as in English. This use of the infinitive, as offering no difficulty, has been tacitly illustrated in some of the foregoing exercises.

¹ Negāvit . . . factūrum, denied himself to be going to do it = refused to do it.

CHAPTER LXII. 1.

ACCUSATIVE AND INFINITIVE.

Indirect Discourse.

399. Examine the following: -

DIRECT.

- 1. Homo est, he is a man.
- 2. Ignis calet, fire is hot.
- 3. Amīcus adest, (his) friend is present.
- 4. Mundus ā Deō regitur, the world is ruled by God.

INDIRECT.

- 1. Dīcit sē hominem esse, he says that he is a man.
- 2. Sentīmus īgnem calēre, we perceive that fire is hot.
- 3. Putat amīcum adesse, he thinks that his friend is present.
- Scimus mundum ā Deō regī, we know that the world is ruled by God.

Notice the difference between the direct and indirect forms of statement.

In the second group, compare the English with the Latin. Observe (1) that after the leading verb there is nothing in the Latin corresponding to the conjunction that; (2) that, while the English retains the nominative and indicative of the direct form, the Latin has instead the accusative and infinitive.

The second group illustrates the indirect discourse, so called because what some one says, thinks, or knows, is stated in the dependent clause indirectly.

- 400. Rule of Syntax.—The accusative and infinitive are regularly used after verbs of saying, thinking, knowing, perceiving, and the like.
- 401. Rule of Syntax.—The subject of the infinitive is in the accusative.

 dīcet scrīptam (he will say that the letter was (has been) written.

A study of the above table will show that the present infinitive denotes the same time as that indicated by the tense of the leading verb; that the future infinitive denotes time after that indicated by the leading verb; and that the perfect infinitive denotes time before that indicated by the leading verb.

403. RULE OF SYNTAX.—The tenses of the infinitive refer to present, future, or past time, relatively to the time of the leading verb.

EXERCISES.

[It will be best to translate each of the following sentences twice; first, literally, just as they stand, then into good English: thus, History relates two sons to have been to Cornelia = history relates that Cornelia had two sons. The eighth thus: The ambassador said himself a public messenger to be of the Roman people = the ambassador said that he was, etc.]

I. 1. Historia nārrat duōs fīliōs fuisse Cornēliae. 2. Cornēlia dīxit fīliōs suōs esse ŏrnāmenta sua. 3. Scīmus mātrēs fīliōs amāre. 4. Trāditum¹ est Caesarem ā Brūtō et Cassiō occīsum esse. 5. Thalēs aquam dīxit esse initium rērum. 10. Trāditum est Homērum fuisse caecum. 11. Lēgātus dīcit montem ab hostibus tenērī.

[Before translating into Latin, cast each sentence mentally into the Latin form; thus the first sentence will be, It is said two sons to have been to Cornelia, or Cornelia two sons to have had; and the seventh, We know you the truth to be about to tell. This practice is of capital importance.]

II. 1. It is said that Cornelia had two sons. 2. Have we not heard that Cornelia had jewels? 3. I think that you will have jewels. 4. We know that Cornelia loved her boys. 5. Do not³ all mothers think that their sons are their jewels? 6. I think that the moon will be full to-morrow. 7. We know that you will tell the truth. 8. History relates that Hannibal was defeated by Marcellus. 9. It is related that Homer wrote poems. 10. I know that this has been done.

11. He said that the enemy held the mountain.

¹ In the compound tenses of the passive voice the perfect participle occasionally loses its idea of time and becomes virtually an adjective. Here trāditum est = it is (a thing) related.

CHAPTER LXIII. 1.

PARTICIPLES.

408. Learn the participles of the regular and irregular verbs.

- 1. For declension of a present active participle, see 165. The ablative singular generally ends in e, but in $\bar{\imath}$ when the participle is used as an adjective.
- 2. The other participles, ending in us, a, um, are declined like bonus (71).

409. Examine the following: -

- 2. Hostes adortus profiligavit, he attacked and routed (having attacked, he routed) the enemy.
- 3. Ei advenienti aquila pilleum sustulit, an eagle took off his cap as he was approaching (to him approaching).

- 8. Nos morituri salutamus, we, (who are) about to die, salute you.
- 9. Ob virginës raptas, on account of the seizure of the maidens (maidens seized).

An adverb, hereupon.

³ Subject acc. of esse. See 401

² Dat, after crēdidī. See 343. ⁴ Emphasizes mihi. (270. 4.)

Study the above examples with reference first to the tenses of the participles, and observe that the time of the participles is present, past, or future, relatively to the time of the leading verb.

Notice how the participle is translated in each example; only in the first is it pest translated literally. What the Latin expresses by a participle we very often express by a clause beginning as, though, if, because, etc., by a relative clause, or by a verb coördinate with one following.

CHAPTER LXIV.

PARTICIPLES: ABLATIVE ABSOLUTE.

412. Examine the following:—

```
Datō sīgnō, virginēs the signal having been given, when the signal was given, at the rising of the sun, the maidens raptae sunt, the reigning, at the reigning, in his reign, while he was reigning, the consult reto, Rōmam rediit, the war having been finished, the consult reto, kaving finished the war, turned to Rome.

Tē duce, hostēs vincēmus, (you (being) leader, with you for a leader, when M. and P. were consuls. in the consulship of M. and P.

Serēnō caelō, (the sky (being) clear. when the sky is clear. in a clear sky.
```

- 1. The foregoing examples illustrate the very common construction called the Ablative Absolute.
- 2. In the first four examples there is a nonn (or pronoun) in the ablative, and a participle agreeing with it. In the last three there is no participle expressed, but instead, another noun or an adjective.
- 3. Carefully compare the Latin with the English translation, and observe that each ablative absolute may be rendered by a clause beginning with when, while, or if (in other instances because, although, etc.), the Latin noun in the ablative becoming the subject of the clause in English, and that this noun refers to a different person or thing from the subject of the leading verb.

- 4. We may also sometimes translate the participle in the ablative absolute by a verb coordinate with a following verb. Thus the fourth might be translated, The consul finished the war and returned.
- 5. If I wish to express in the Latin, While he was reigning, he carried on war, he being the subject of both the principal and subordinate clauses, I say, Is regnans bellum gessit; but if I wish to express, While he was reigning, war arose, he being subject of the subordinate clause, and war of the principal, I use the ablative absolute, thus, Eō regnante, bellum exortum est.
- 6. In the fourth example notice the change of idiom. We might say, The consul, having finished the war, returned to Rome; but the Latin has no perfect active participle corresponding to having finished; therefore, in Latin the perfect passive participle must be used in the ablative with the noun bellum. The same idea may, of course, be expressed by a cum clause. See 372.
- 7. From the nature of deponent verbs (passive form with active meaning), it will be seen that the English participle with having may be directly expressed in Latin, if there is a deponent verb of the right meaning; thus, Caesar having encouraged his men, Caesar milites hortatus.
- 8. Most instances of the so-called ablative absolute may be resolved as the ablative of time, means, cause, etc.

413. EXERCISES.

[Translate each ablative absolute in as many ways as possible.]

I. 1. Strictō gladiō, trānsfīxit puellam. 2. Expulsīs rēgibus, duo consulēs creātī sunt. 3. Quō factō,¹ mūtāta est proelī fortūna. 4. Occupātā Siciliā, quid posteā āctūrus es? 5. Hannibal, vīsō frātris occīsī capite, dīxit: "Āgnōscō fortūnam Carthāginis." 6. Hīs parātīs rēbus, Caesar mīlitēs nāvēs conscendere jubet. 7. Hōc factō, tūtus eris. 8. Alpibus superātīs, Hannibal in Ītaliam vēnit. 9. Caesar, mortuō Sūllā, Rhodum sēcēdere statuit. 10. Dēlētīs Teutonibus, C. Marius in Cimbrōs sē convertit.

¹ When this had been done. What is it literally?

[Before trying to translate the following sentences, consider well in each case what the probable Latin form of expression, or idiom, would be for the subordinate clause, adverbial phrase, etc.; thus, When he had stabbed the girl = the girl (having been) stabbed; When Numa was king = Numa (being) king; By hurling their javelins = by the javelins hurled.]

II. 1. When he had stabbed the girl, he put by his sword.

2. On the expulsion of King Tarquin, Brutus and Collatinus were made consuls.

3. When Numa was king, the temple of Janus was built.

4. Cæsar, after he had overcome the Gauls, waged war with Pompey.

5. On the death of Cato, there was no longer¹ a republic.

6. Having learned these facts (things), he hastened against the enemy.

7. The soldiers, by hurling their javelins, broke the enemy's line.

8. Having held a levy, the consul sets out immediately for (ad) the army.

9. O my country, thou hast overcome my anger by employing a mother's entreaties.

IMPERSONAL VERBS.

415. Examine the following: -

- 1. Pluit, it rains.
- 2. Tonat, it thunders.
- Mē pudet stultitiae meae, I am ashamed (it shames me) of my folly.
- 4. Eum paenitet sceleris, he repents (it repents him) of his crime.
- 5. Pūgnābātur, fighting was going on (it was being fought).
- Caesarī¹ pārendum² est, Cæsær must be obeyed (it must be obeyed to Cæsar).
- 7. Tibi licet exīre, you may go out (it is permitted to you to go out).
- Hōc nos facere oportet, we ought to do this (it behows us to do this).
- Caesarī placuit ut lēgātōs mitteret, Cæsar determined (it pleased Cæsar) to send ambassadors.
- (1) Observe in each of the foregoing examples that the leading verb has no personal subject either expressed or implied. In 7, the subject of licet is the infinitive exīre; in S, the phrase hōc nōs facere is the subject of oportet; in 9, the clause ut lēgātōs mitteret is the subject of placuit. In each of the first six the subject is contained in the verb itself.
- (2) Some verbs, like pluit, tonat, pudet, paenitet, licet, the use of which is mostly confined to the third person singular, are called Impersonal Verbs; many others, as in the examples pūgnābātur, oportet, placuit, are sometimes used impersonally.
- (3) Examples 7 and 8 show one way of rendering may and must into Latin.
- (4) In 3 and 4 notice the use of the accusative and genitive after the verbs.
- 416. Rule of Syntax. The impersonal verbs miseret, paenitet, piget, pudet, taedet take the accusa-

Passive.

Frātrī persuādētur, his brother is persuaded.

Lēgibus pārēbātur, the laws were obeyed.

Mihi crēditur, I am believed.

Amīcīs nocētur, their friends are injured.

Observe that the verbs are intransitive. Compare the active and passive in the examples one by one. Observe that in each case the passive is expressed by putting the verb in the third person singular, leaving the indirect object of the active unchanged.

418. RULE OF SYNTAX. — Intransitive verbs are used impersonally in the passive, the person or thing affected (the subject in English) being expressed by the dative.

PERIPHRASTIC CONJUGATIONS.

FUTURE ACTIVE PARTICIPLE. — GERUNDIVE.

- 423. The gerundive with the verb sum forms the Second, or Passive Periphrastic Conjugation: amandus sum, eram, etc., I am., was, etc., to be loved; I deserve, ought, etc., to be loved.

- Vöbīs jūdiciö ūtendum est, (the duty of using judgment is to you) you ought to use judgment.
- (1) The first three examples show how a future tense may be supplied for the subjunctive mood.
- (2) Observe in the fourth example the use of the gerundive agreeing with a noun which is the object of cūrō, the whole expression denoting to have a thing done.
- (3) The last five examples show some uses of the passive periphrastic conjugation. Notice that the idea of necessity, or duty, is prominent in these forms.
- (4) In 7, 8, and 9 the verbs are used impersonally, that is, without any personal subject, the gerundive being in the nominative singular neuter. This impersonal use belongs to transitive verbs without an object expressed, and to intransitive verbs. For the case of jūdiciō, see 304.
- (5) In the last four examples, Caesarī, mihi, omnibus, and $v\bar{o}b\bar{i}s$, denote in each case the person to whom there is a duty or necessity of doing something. This dative is most conveniently rendered with by, and is called the Dative of Agent.

CHAPTER LXVII.

GERUND. — GERUNDIVE. — SUPINE.

430. Learn the gerunds and supines of the regular and irregular verbs.

GERUND.

- 431. Examine the following:—
- G. Caesar loquendi finem facit, Cæsar makes an end of speaking.

Cupidus est të audiendī, he is desirous of hearing you.

- D. Aqua ūtilis est bibendō, water is useful for drinking.
- Ac. Inter pügnandum trīgintā nāvēs captae sunt, during the fight (amid the fighting) thirty ships were taken.
- Ab. Mens discendo alitur, the mind is strengthened by learning.
- 1. The above examples illustrate the use of the gerund in its several cases. It will be seen that the gerund is used like the English verbal noun in ing. The nominative is supplied in Latin by the infinitive; e.g., vidēre est crēdere, seeing is believing.

GERUND AND GERUNDIVE.

432. Examine the following:—

- G. Consilia { urbem delendi, } plans for (of) destroying urbis delendae, } the city.
- D. Operam dat { agros colendo (rare) } he devotes himself to agris colendos, } tilling the fields.
- Ac. Vēnērunt ad { pācem petendum (rare) } they came to sue } pācem petendam, } for peace.
- Ab. Occupātus { lītterās scrībendō (rare) } I was engaged in sum in { lītterīs scrībendīs, } writing letters.
- 1. What is to be particularly studied in the above examples is the difference between the gerund and the gerundive construction, as shown within the braces. Observe (1) that the gerund is put in the required case, and has its object in the accusative; (2) that the noun is put in the required case, and the gerundive agrees with it.

- 2. Except in the genitive, where the two constructions are about equally common, the genundive construction is almost always preferred.
- 3. Notice that the accusative of the gerund or gerundive with ad denotes a purpose. This construction is much used. In what other ways may a purpose be expressed?

SUPINE.

433. Examine the following:

- Lēgātī Rōmam veniunt pācem petītum, ambassadors come to Rome to sue for peace.
- 2. Id perfacile est factū, that is very easy to do, or to be done.

Observe in the first example that the supine petītum has the same meaning as ut petant, quī petant, or ad petendam; that is, it expresses purpose. This use is common after verbs of motion.

434. RULE OF SYNTAX.—The supine in um is used after verbs of motion to express purpose.

In the second example the supine in \bar{u} answers the question in what respect? Perfacile factū, casy in respect to the doing. This use is common after adjectives.

The supine in \bar{u} is really an ablative of specification. See 260.

CÆSAR'S TWO INVASIONS OF BRITAIN.

448. [In the latter part of the summer of B.C. 55, Cæsar brought his ships together into the country of the Morini, who occupied the seacoast from the modern Boulogne northward, and set sail for Britaiu.]

The Britons, barbari, as Cæsar calls them, some standing on the edge of the shore, or advancing into the water, others driving in their horses with their two-wheeled chariots a little way, to get nearer to the ships, fought the Romans manfully. But they had to deal with an enemy as brave and determined as themselves, and the Romans were fighting under the eye of Cæsar. At last one daring soldier showed them how to conquer.]

VOCABULARIES.

LATIN-ENGLISH VOCABULARY.

In this vocabulary words inclosed in brackets are, in most cases, those which are given in Latin lexicons and special vocabularies as the primitives of those against which they are set. But, except in compounds, it would be more correct to regard the bracketed words as connected with the others in formation from a common root or stem. It is on this ground that such instances will be found as metus referred to metuō, and metuō to metus. Neither is, strictly speaking, derived from the other, but both are formed from the stem metu.

Words printed in Gothie Italic type are at once derivatives and definitions. Many other more or less remotely derived words, not definitions, are added in SMALL CAPITALS.

It will be seen that comparisons of words in reference to meaning are much more frequent than is usual in special vocabularies. This has been done from the conviction that the pupil should make such comparisons frequently from the outset.
